HAPGOOD INTERVIEW

Thinks State Does Not Need An Attorney General

Peru, June 12.—Marsh J. Hapgood, the sage of Peru, given out an interview in which he touches up the attorney general's office, as follows:

In regard to the much discussed question of the attorney generalship, perhaps a word from me, who has had so much to do with it in the Legislature, may not be amiss.

I believe that the position that Gov. Fletcher has taken, according to what I note in the press, that the office should be abolished is the true position to take in the matter, for I believe that the governor alone, as the chief executive, to see that all laws are enforced, by demanding that the regular prosecuting officers, shall do their duty, can fully attend to the matter.

The office was created, in the first place, largely for the purpose of giving a member of the Legislature a good berth; and I then opposed its creation and opposed the election of the fellow member who was put into the office, and told him to his face that I could not consent to create an office and fill it by one of our own members.

However, the first incumbent did remarkably well, but since then scandals have been connected with the office which are a disgrace to the state.

The second incumbent, at the close of the session gave a free lunch to all of the members, which was followed by a resolution, not a regular bill, during the closing hours when all is confusion and haste, raising his salary a thousand dollars a year.

The third, or present, incumbent was favored by a regular bill at the beginning of his career to raise his salary a thousand dollars a year, but this bill failed to passage, although, as I remember, reported favorably by the committee; yet during the closing hours of the session a resolution was introduced to the same effect, but to the honor of the body it was not adopted. That such a thing should have been attempted by a resolution after it had been killed by the regular course of procedure, is beyond the bounds of decency, and clearly shows the animus of the situation.

No other officer of the state is so clearly bound to avoid every suspicion, even of working for self interest as a primary object, as the attorney general, who is supposed to be the leader in maintaining a state of affairs regulated by the principle of law, order and decency, and when such an officer takes a contrary position what may we expect of his extensive band of subordinates.

We have made a fair trial of the thing and I believe that our position today is worse upon the whole, than it would have been had we never had an attorney general.

You can say that Hapgood knows what he is talking about for he was "in it" all of the time.
